★ JANUARY UPDATE FROM HERRMAN & HERRMAN PERSONAL INJURY LAWYERS

Happy New Year from all of us at Herrman & Herrman! As we welcome 2026, our team is excited for another year of serving our clients and supporting the communities we care so deeply about.

This month, we're dedicating our efforts to expanding community outreach and further improving the support you receive from our team. We're also excited to share that several community events and giveaways are already in motion for early 2026. These initiatives are our way of giving back and staying actively involved, so be sure to keep an eye out for upcoming announcements and ways to participate on our website!

Thank you for placing your trust in Herrman & Herrman. We look forward to being here for you and your family in the year ahead.

Risks of Loaning Your Car

- Lending your car to a friend or family member isn't risk-free – if they get into an accident while driving your vehicle, your insurance (and potentially you) could be responsible.
- In Texas, insurance usually "follows the vehicle," so even if your friend is driving, your policy may pay for damages – and if your friend lacks a valid license or is uninsured, liability risks increase.
- If the driver is unfit (underage, unlicensed, intoxicated, etc.), lending your car could be considered "negligent entrustment," which may make you legally responsible for any resulting harm.
- Before letting someone borrow your car, know your coverage, confirm the driver's license and insurance status, and make sure the vehicle is properly maintained.

Incorrect Police Report? What Should You Do?

- Police reports sometimes contain errors – such as incorrect dates, times, vehicle details, contact information, or descriptions of how the accident happened.
- If you notice a mistake, act quickly: gather supporting evidence (photos, registration, medical documents, etc.) and politely request that the reporting officer or department correct the information.
- For narrative errors or disputed statements, you can ask the officer to add a supplemental statement, though this is ultimately at their discretion.
